

Jon Barker, a Rev. with a rich musical background, grew up in various states across America. He pursued his passion for music at Samford University, where he graduated with a major in Theory and Composition, specializing in piano, voice, and percussion.

Throughout his career, Jon has dedicated himself to extensive mission work in diverse regions, including Europe, Asia, Central America, Africa, Australia, and most of the United States. Since 1989, he has been a prolific songwriter, teacher, and worship leader, inspiring countless churches across the nation.

His remarkable talent has earned him recognition as one of the top 15 Christian music composers in the world, with his songs resonating on five continents and in numerous countries. Beyond his musical achievements, Jon is also a sought-after guest lecturer and professor in Southeast Asia and Western Europe, sharing his expertise in Ethics, Old Testament and New Testament Theology, and Biblical Worship Workshops.

Ordained as a minister in 1996, Jon's life is a testament to his passion for music and his unwavering commitment to spreading the hope of Jesus Christ. As a songwriter, music director, composer, singer, and father to three daughters, Nora, Mattie, and Lindsay, Jon's life is filled with excitement and purpose.

One constant in his journey is his unwavering desire to share the transformative power of Jesus Christ with everyone he encounters.
